Sharpen Your Writing

Objective:

To explain formal writing in detail along with the requirements for effective formal writing in order to enable the students to prepare effective drafts of various types of formal documents (Business Letters, Office Correspondence, Emails, Press Release, Advertisements etc.). To train the students for the General Training and Academic Writing Section of IELTS.

Note: Formal writing is also called Business Writing/Professional Writing/Technical Writing.

Explanation:

What is writing? and What are its types?

Writing can be defined as ‘expression of ideas, thoughts or emotions using visual script of language’.

There are two types of writing: Informal and Formal.

Informal is the one that we do in our social circles while formal is one that is extensively used in the formal world and by professionals in their business circles. In the present practical, we will understand formal writing in detail and then we will learn how various formal drafts can be prepared.

What are the features/characteristics of formal writing?

Formal writing is more serious in nature and this is why it is required that one who wants to prepare anything formal must have a clear understanding of certain basic requirements.

No one likes to read anything that is unclear, long, ambiguous, impolite or incomplete. In modern times, when people have little time to spare, the writer must communicate his/her message concisely and clearly. The following points are useful in developing effective formal writing skills, and therefore one should keep them in mind before doing any sort of formal writing.

Analyze the situation and aim of writing:

Pay attention to why are you writing and what are you going to write: Do you simply want to share information? Do you want to explain a difficult concept? Or do you want to motivate, inspire or appreciate your readers?

Know your audience: Before writing anything, the writer should analyze the person or people (age, level of intelligence, understanding and experience, education, gender etc.) of the person to whom he/she is writing.

Anticipate the possible effect: Think about how your words would impact the reader. This can be best done by putting yourself in the place of the reader.

Use proper structure: Language is the common element of all types of writing, but the structure of every written text is different. Choose the correct layout for your purpose and use it appropriately.

Choose plain and direct language:

Simple language is preferred by everyone because it is easily and clearly understood. Choose simple and familiar words, frame sentences of moderate length, and compose effective paragraphs.

Prepare the rough draft, read and edit: Often, we cannot decide how we should introduce and develop the subject in writing. It is best practice to prepare a rough draft of the message, read it again and again, improve the writing and correct mistakes. Once you are done with this process, prepare the fair draft.

What makes any formal draft ‘effective’?

Formal writing is a very important, useful and necessary activity for any organization. In order to make any draft effective, one must pay attention to: E=A+I where E stands for Effective Formal Writing, A refers to Attractive Appearance and I is for Impressive Language. Any formal draft must be sound in terms of its appearance as well as language to serve its desired purpose.

1. Attractive Appearance and 2. Impressive Language (4 Cs)

Attractive Appearance:

Paper Quality	A business document must be written on a fine quality A-4 size paper.
Margin, Spacing and Folding	Enough space should be spared for margin. Provide appropriate spacing between words and lines, pauses and full-stops. Make sure that you fold the document befitting the size of the envelope.
Colour and Font selection	Color and font selection attract and absorb readers while presenting the details conspicuously.
Envelope	The paper of the envelope should also be of good quality and it should be multicolored.

Impressive Language:

Clarity	The language should be simple and clear. The message should be imparted in understandable language.
Correctness	The language should be grammatically correct. Correctness also means that false information should not be supplied.
Conciseness	The language of Business Correspondence should be short and sweet. The writer should straight away come to the point.
Courtesy	The language should be polite and courteous. The readers’ feelings should be respected and his/her interests should be protected.

Let’s now take up various formal drafts for detailed study.

Business Letter Writing

Since Business Letter is a formal letter, it follows a specific pattern of structure (lay out). The following are the parts one finds on a business letter. It is very important to be familiar with different parts of a Business Letter so that we can place them at the appropriate place. We own a showroom named 'Jack n Jill Collections' dealing with gift articles and toys at one of the prime business hubs of Mehsana city; The Vrindavan Arcade. We have been doing this business for the past 5 years and share quite a healthy rapport in Mehsana.

Sir, as you are fairly aware that Fisher Price Toys comes second to none in manufacturing leisure tools. Many of its toys have been among the best sellers in toddler category. For any statewide dealer, the qualities that you possess are too good to be credible.

With this, I would like to request you to provide us with the reference material for further information regarding the asked brand.

We thank you in anticipation of your prompt and positive response in above connection.

Sub: Complaint for defective and damaged toy articles

Dear Sir,

We are pleased while thanking you for your timely supply of toy articles to our order dated 12th January, 2025. However, while scrutinizing the received consignment certain flaws caught our attention immediately.

Out of total 300 toys sent to us, around 50 pieces of the 'Push-Behind Turtle' toys have been received in an utterly damaged condition while 20 others don't seem to be properly functioning. The condition of the received consignment is so poor that we cannot help feeling there must have been some mistake in making up the order. This also led us into wondering as to what may have gone wrong on your end. Hence, we have no choice but to ask you to replace the faulty and damaged articles. If this is not possible, then I am afraid we shall have to cancel the order.

We don't intend to embarrass you and are also ready to allow the mentioned time for delivery of the new consignment to run from the date you can confirm us to supply goods.

Thank you.

Sub: Adjustment to the complaint of defective and damaged toy articles

Dear Sir,

We received your complaint letter dated 18th January, 2025 about the consignment having damaged and defective articles that you received. We sincerely apologize for the trouble caused and are equally thankful to you for drawing our attention towards the problem.

From your account of the problem, we had all our departments re-supervised. After a rigorous scrutiny, we found that it was a lapse of our packaging department. This department has recently recruited several untried personnel. One of them, by mistake, picked up the goods from a whole lot of thrown-out ones while packaging your consignment. I am sorry that it was your company that had to be the one to suffer the inconvenience.

Sir, we have already made all the arrangements for the early replacement of almost whole consignment. We trust the fresh consignment will reach you safely and prove satisfactory.

I hope this unfortunate accident will not spoil our trade relations.
